The attack for days. They were reclaiming the land. They said the friends that were present had occupied the house of their ancestors. Children, they said, who had been born here, were to be taken care of. The children were protected, they said, to ensure their future. "Secure the purity of our children, protect our future," they said. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future. The children were to be educated, to protect their future and to ensure their future. The children were to be protected, they said, to ensure their future.